PLAN FOR RESISTING

Railroad Leaders Want To Know
Details of The Lewis
Proposals

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Railroad brotherhood leaders, including officials of the Big Four, went into conference here today "with open minds" to hear John L. Lewis' "defensive alliance" idea.

Lewis, who is president of the United Mine Workers of America, proposes an alliance of the railroad unions and the miners to resist contemplated wage reductions. The conference was called by Lewis.

The railroad union officials frankly declared that they did not know how they stood on the proposition, and would not know until the question had been thoroughly gone over. They said they did not know how far Lewis would want them to go. The belief was that the idea would, at least, be given the moral support of the rail unions.

If, however, the alliance contemplated anything so drastic as a sympathetic strike April 1 with the miners that would call for serious consideration, it was pointed out.

That there was a difference of opinion was evident. D. F. Grable, international president of the maintenance of way brotherhoods, said he was in hearty accord with the idea.

"I think the real solution of our trouble is over at the other conference," said T. C. Cashen, international president of the switchmen's unions, referring to the convention of the progressive labor group from all over the country, meeting elsewhere in Chicago. "They have the right idea. Let us form a coalition of union and farmer organizations and support candidates for office who will be favorable to labor legislation and labor needs. Let us take a leaf out of the anti-saloon league program."

Grable said the needs of the railroad unions and the coal miners are allied and that they should form a workable coalition as the individual charters of the various unions would permit.

B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employees department, of the American Federation of Labor, Timothy D. Shea, assistant president of the brotherhood of locomotive firemen and other leaders refused point blank to discuss the Lewis proposal in advance of presentation.

One railroad labor leader privately declared that the railroad men "had taken a lot and that they were ready for almost anything." The consensus was that the administration is dead against them and that something must be done.

Governor Taylor
Thanked By Flint

Governor Alf Taylor, of Tennessee, is thanked for his gallant fight in behalf of the bid of Henry Ford to take over Muscle Shoals, by action of a mass meeting of the citizens of Flint, six miles from here.

The Flint citizens unanimously endorsed the offer of Mr. Ford and criticized the offer of the Alabama Power company.

CHICAGO'S BOY "PONZI"

THOMAS JONES IS CUT TO DEATH AS HE STRIKES SAW

A horrible accident happened this morning about eight o'clock at the saw mill of Clarence Bynum, several miles out on the Moulton pike, as a result of which Thomas Jones, an employee of the mill lost his life almost instantly.

The work of getting up steam at the plant was under way, the hands at the mill standing around waiting for the word to go to work. Two bolt heads from the boiler blew out, permitting the escape of steam and water. Mr. Jones was standing close by and deeming it dangerous, began to run, all the time looking back at the boiler.

He ran toward a cut off saw that was perhaps 15 feet away, with the result that his right leg was instantly severed midway between the knee and ankle, and in the endeavor to extricate himself, caught hold of a post that supported the saw frame, when his leg was again cut off near the body. Immediately following the accident all hands ran to him, he being in a sitting position looking at the wound. He was spoken to but never replied, death resulting in about three minutes.

Mr. Jones had been working at the mill only four or five days. He was 57 years of age, leaves a wife, Mrs. Sallie Jones, and four children, as follows: Lula, Pearl, Herman and Sallie Mand. Burial will take place at Bell View cemetery Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, Rev. J. I. Stockton conducting the services.

Albany Council
Will Meet Tonight

The regular meeting of the Albany city council will be held tonight at the city hall. Besides routine matter, there will probably be some matters of a special nature that will be acted upon at this session. At the last meeting a committee was appointed to inquire as to probable cost of repair and just what was needed on some of the streets of the city, and it is quite likely that some action will be taken when their report is filed at this meeting. The committee that was appointed to look after the matter of selling the city school bonds will in all probability report at this time their findings, and some probable action is likely to be taken on this matter.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 21.—Governor Kilby is unalterably opposed to the acceptance of the Alabama Power company's bid for Muscle Shoals even though it be advantageous to the government, but he cannot approve of the proposal of Henry Ford for the taking over of the government's development there until there is assurance that his operations will be under the supervision of the Alabama public service commission, that the right of the state to tax the interest of the lessee in the property is protected and that any surplus power will be disposed of to other utilities and manufacturing plants in Alabama.

This declaration was made by Governor Kilby in a statement Monday afternoon outlining the position he has taken regarding the competitive bids of Henry Ford and the Alabama Power company for the lease of the Muscle Shoals development.

Governor Kilby said he could not favor the bid of the Alabama Power company because "it would mean the creation in Alabama of a monopoly so gigantic and so powerful that in time to come the very life blood of the state and its people could be squeezed out at its will." He declared the acceptance of the company's proposal "would be an unspeakable calamity" and that "as the representative of the people of Alabama I protest against this monstrous imposition that is threatened by the coupling up of all the water powers of the state in one huge monopoly. I call upon and insist that our senators and representatives in congress use their all and every honorable means to prevent this combination, and furthermore I protest to the congress of

According to his promise, George B. Scott, traveling immigration and B. Scott, traveling immigration and Nashville company, was in attendance at the industrial exposition last night, but owing to the crowded conditions and the fact that Mr. Scott had been on the road for some time, it was agreed that he not make a formal address. In lieu of this, the industrial agent gave a statement for The Daily covering the salient points as he would have made them had he taken the platform.

He said in substance: "My remarks would have been made for the purpose of bringing to the notice of the people generally, the advantages nature has endowed this section with, and what the Louisville and Nashville railroad proposes to do to help get you all in possession of the wealth lying all around you. It is not necessary for me to recount your mineral wealth such as kyanite from which Chinaware and pottery can be made; bauxite, which has a high content of aluminum, and all the more well known minerals too numerous to mention; but you have them all.

"At Louisville on the ground floor of the most frequented street in the city is located our industrial exhibit. In the north end is shown a typical northern farm.

"And did you ever stop to think," said Mr. Scott, "how the farmers in the cold north must spend most of all he makes in summer to maintain his family and stock during the winter? Five months of the year is practically wasted in getting ready for winter and in waiting for spring to open. In the south end of our exposition room you will see in contrast to the expensive building of the north, a southern bungalow, open to the gentle breezes of the south wind, and built with comparatively little expense and labor. We have real water, real ground and real houses in this southern exhibit, and we have miniature men going about to demonstrate that you can work practically during all the months of the year in the South."

Impressed with Twin Cities

"Your community is now facing the opportunity of their lives. Let them seize the day for opportunity does not camp on your door step—it makes its call and is gone forever." Mr. Scott, in his interview, visualized the Tennessee Valley as it will be when the waterpower at Muscle Shoals is harnessed and made to do man's will.

He said that all the cities such as Albany, Decatur, Florence and Sheffield, and dozens of other cities, would become busy manufacturing centers and that power would be sent from the Shoals out into the middle west. He spoke interestingly of his visit to the silk mill and of the evident good labor conditions there.

While the intrastate rates have not been included within the scope of the investigation, it was stated "the commission appreciate the desirability of greater harmony between the intrastate and interstate rate structures that now exist and believes that not only the carriers but also the shippers and state commissions of the South entertain like views as to this matter."

HOUSE COMMITTEE THEN WILL TAKE UP
COUNTER OFFER SUBMITTED BY POWER
COMPANY TO TAKE OVER GREAT PROJECT

Representative Fields Charges Air Nitrates Corporation Doesn't Want Nitrate Plant, But Only Desires To Block Development

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Consideration by the house military affairs committee of Henry Ford's bid to lease and develop Muscle Shoals will be concluded this week, Chairman Kahn, of the committee, announced today.

The committee will immediately take up the counter offer of the Alabama Power Company. This offer is now with Secretary of War Weeks, who has announced he will transmit it to Congress either today or tomorrow.

Secretary Weeks has stated that in his opinion the Alabama Power company's offer is superior to Ford's in many respects. Chairman Kahn has stated there remains before consideration on the Ford offer can be concluded, testimony from representatives of the Alabama Power company, the national federation of farm bureaus and Charles H. McDowell, president of the National Fertilizer Association and Colonel Charles Keller, engineering commissioner for the District of Columbia who made a super power study of the Shoals property.

There also remains before the Ford offer is disposed of by the committee, expected decision from the Detroit manufacturer as to whether he will accept modification to his proposed contract that several committee members have demanded be made.

W. B. Mayo, chief of Ford's engineers, will make known this decision tomorrow or Thursday. Chairman Kahn declared. J. O. Hammitt, vice president of the Air Nitrates Corporation, which claims optional rights to purchase nitrate plant Number 2, today resumed defense of his contention that before the government can dispose of Muscle Shoals it must give his company opportunity to buy nitrate plant Number 2.

Representative Fields, of Kentucky, asserted that from Hammitt's testimony it was apparent that "you are not seeking a chance to exercise your option to purchase the plant; but you desire to have the government maintain the plant in an idle stand-by condition and keep it out of competition with the American Cyanimid company and its subsidiary the Air Nitrate Corporation."

BIGGEST AIRSHIP
BURNS AND 35 DIE

(International News Service)

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 21.—The army dirigible Roma, largest airship of that type in the world, exploded in mid-air above Hampton Roads this afternoon and fell, burning, into the water of the Roads.

First reports were that there had been considerable loss of life. The big ship carries a large crew, normally from 30 to 40 men. The ship had left Langley Field, her home station, at 1:30 o'clock p.m., on a short practice flight.

The big R-shaped vessel was sailing along about 1,000 feet above the Roads when suddenly there was a terrific explosion and the ship dropped like a plummet into the waters of the Roads.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—A naval radio dispatch from Norfolk received here at 3:15 p.m. stated that 35 men lost their lives this afternoon in the wreck of the Roma, largest dirigible of her type in the world. The dispatch stated that the Roma carried a crew of 50 men and that 35 were killed, the others being rescued.

SALES TAX GROWS
IN SOLONS' FAVOR

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Congressional revenue hunters continued their hunt today for means to finance a soldier bonus, determined to reach an agreement and bring to an end the embarrassing uncertainty which has kept things in a turmoil in the house for a week.

The sales tax advocates by President Harding was the generally acknowledged favorite when the tax division of the Republican membership of the ways and means committee met.

The sales taxes found renewed hope in the fact that a protest meeting called by anti-sales tax members brought out only 22 members of the house who were opposed to the plan.

TROOPS CALLED
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 21.—Four companies of the coast artillery today were ordered to Pawtucket. The governor's conciliation commission is scheduled to meet representatives of the mills and the strikers this afternoon. It is expected, if martial law is proclaimed, the governor will make the announcement following the meeting.

Unions Discuss
Henry Ford Bid

A largely attended meeting of the Central Labor Union of Albany and Decatur was held last night and lasted about three hours. A number of resolutions were introduced, two of which had reference to the calling of an extra session of the legislature. Charles M. Dinsmore was present from the farmers' county organization and made an address of interest to the delegates.

Most of the resolutions introduced were referred to committees after extended discussion. The reports of the standing committees were read and accepted, and a number of bills ordered paid. The meeting was presided over by Edward Spain, the president.

THE SOLDIER BONUS
MAY YET MATERIALIZE.

Chairman Fordney says in behalf of his committee that the soldier bonus measure will yet become a law. Since President Harding has tried so often and so faithfully to kill the bonus and so far failed to do so, we may reasonably conclude that Mr. Fordney may be right. But since the agricultural bloc has opened fire on the proposed sales tax considerable doubt exists as to the success of the friends of the bonus at this time. In case the measure fails the Republicans may be safely relied upon to place the blame on the farmers' bloc. The choice must be made, unless a new plan is offered, between accepting the sales tax, or refusing to grant the bonus. If the farmers' bloc accepts the bonus, they will be criticized by powerful interests; if they refuse the sales tax, they will come under the fire of a host of the sincere friends of the returned soldiers and sailors. So in any event Mr. Harding, who has fought the farmers' bloc in season and out of season will regard its present plight with equanimity. While the present Republican administration will likely loose many votes in the next Congress if it allows the soldier bonus to fail, it is not probable that there will be enough friends of the bonus to put it over inside of twelve months or more. Whichever side wins next year, however, it will doubtless stand for the payment of the bonus. For whatever the next line up in Congress is, the side that loses the most heavily is sure to attribute that loss to the votes of the soldiers and sailors and consequently will vote for a bonus bill to keep from loosing any more votes. In case the next Congressional elections result in turning the Republicans out of power entirely, the Democrats will feel that the bonus issue did it, and will think that they should therefore pass a bone fide bonus bill. And in case the next Congress is Democratic, and has reason to believe that President Harding will veto their bonus bill they will be sure to pass it. At any rate the longer the bonus question is before the people, the chances are the more popular it will become as in a year or so, the country will be in a better condition financially to raise the billions it will require.

RED ADVERTISING ON THE FRONT PAGE.

Recently a reputable Southern daily paper made a protest against an unusual advertising scheme. Some parties got a large number of a certain day's edition of this daily, took them to a nearby printing shop, and had a large advertisement in red letters printed across the front page and then distributed the papers FREE. The editor of the paper in question when he found it out represented the unfair advantage taken. He and his associates had written the contents of his paper and printed it first of all, to instruct and edify their subscribers. A certain dignity attaches to that kind of a service, and a certain consideration is due any newspaper, for it boosts its community, sets high standards, and furnishes its reader with the intellectual news food of the day. And to have all that effort placed in the back ground with red ink and then the papers distributed FREE, was more than the editor in question could stand for and after denouncing the publicity man's idea of ethics he says that in the future such unfair advertising will not occur without the knowledge of his paper.

"All persons are hereby put on notice," says the editor, "that what has been done is not regarded as an unfriendly act, but any repetition of it, or anything in character with it, will be so regarded. The people in this office are responsible for the appearance and content of the paper, and a decent self-respect demands that they should take a good deal of pride in both. Their conception of the dignity of this responsibility prohibits such."

A little thought will make it plain how unpleasant and the red advertisement must have appeared to the owners and employees of the paper in question. The red letters must have looked yellow to them. Until people respond joyfully to the idea and practice of putting circus bills on their drawing room walls when entertaining company, or posting their front doors with advertising dodgers, such exploits, as referred to above will be very unpopular everywhere!

U. S. POPULATION
21 YEARS AND OVER.

A preliminary statement issued by the Department of Commerce, based on the findings of the U. S. census report shows that men lead the women as to number, where ever comparative statements occur. The same report also shows that not nearly so many foreign born persons live in the United States as is generally believed. Out of a total of male citizens of all races amounting to 24,339,776, only 3,322,104 are foreign born naturalized men. In view of the increase of Chinese and Japanese in this country, the report seems to place the men of these races rather low. It shows that out of a total male population of about 31,000,000 of those 21 years old or beyond that age, only 53,411 Japanese are listed and 46,979 Chinamen. The whole comparative statement as to men and women and the different races represented in America is as follows:

The total population 21 years of age and over, 60,886,520, comprised of 31,403,370 men and 29,483,29,483,150 women. The total number of citizens 21 years of age and over, 54,421,832, was made up of 27,661,880 men and 26,759,952 women. The citizens comprised all native persons and all naturalized foreign-born persons. The total number of men 21 years of age and over comprised 28,442,400 whites 2,792,006 negroes, 61,229 Indians, 46,979 Chinese, 53,411 Japanese, and 7,345 men of other races—Filipines, Hindues, Hawaiians, Malays, etc. Of the white men 21,513,948 were natives, and 6,928,452 were foreign born; and of the natives, 15,805,063 were of native parentage, 3,956,384 of foreign parentage, and 1,752,501 of mixed native and foreign parentage. The total number of male citizens of all races, 27,661,880, comprised 24,339,776 native and 3,322,104 foreign born naturalized men.

REPORTERS' RIGHTS.

A brand-new city official began his official career the other day by saying "scat" to the newspaper reporters who are assigned to his department. He told them he was a busy man and didn't want them around.

Although the incident contributed a little to the general hilarity of official life, it does not promise a great deal in the way of an intelligent administration. It is like a voice harking from the dark ages. The right of the reporter to access to the city official has come, by common sense, to be inherent as the right of trial by jury or of legislative representation. The reporter may be a slangy boy, but he is the unofficial representative of the force that puts officials in office—and takes them out again. The reporter represents the public in a way that no elected or appointed official ever can or will. For he is the only permanence that exists in American public life. Public officials come and public officials go, but the reporter is there to say both "Hail" and "Farewell." That he has no official standing makes his tenure the firmer and his influence the greater.

The public has the right to know the conduct of any public office and the meek and lowly reporter is their authorized agent, sent to find out. Of late years official Washington has come to recognize this status of the press. Even the President has regular meetings with the newspaper men in Washington. All the cabinet officers meet the reporter at regular intervals—usually twice a day; and this engagement takes precedence over all other official business. Our new official means well, no doubt, but he is wandering around in the mists of the archaic past.—From the Los Angeles Times.

Together we go forward; divided we retrace our steps. Always there are the conservatively constructive and the radically inclined who are also constructive. Neither of these wings of society should despise the other, any more than the "right" wing of the bird despises its "left" wing. The sole question to ask people of these two different temperaments is: Do you wish to lift your civilization and carry it forward to higher things?

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Notice in New Orleans on about 12,000 bales weakened the cotton market there at the opening today and in turn depressed the list here.

The local market started 17 to 25 points lower. There was fast selling early by Liverpool, Japanese interests and the South and Wall street and the tables were poor. Later quotations were about 27 points net lower.

Back Bad Today?

Backache is usually kidney-ache and makes you dull, nervous and tired. Use Doan's Kidney Pills for weak kidneys—the remedy recommended by your friends and neighbors. Ask your neighbor.

R. W. Dodson, 1114 Third Ave. S., Albany, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills on several occasions and they have always brought relief. When I first began using Doan's, I was in pretty bad shape with my back. I met with an accident on a street car some years ago and I blame this for bringing on the trouble. Whenever I would stoop over, I couldn't straighten up without taking hold of something and I often got dizzy and black specks floated before my eyes. My kidneys acted irregularly and I was in pretty bad shape. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Dulcinea Bros. Drug Store and they soon relieved me of these troubles. I have frequently recommended Doan's since."

Nature Loves Bright Colors

We see the truth of this statement in the varicolored flowers, the vivid sunsets, the birds of brilliant plumage, but we never see it exemplified more attractively than in the person of a plenily healthy woman. How does nature paint this health? Why, in the osy cheeks, the transparent skin, the smooth red lips of such a woman.

And she molds it in firm flesh and rounded contours. The alluring woman's deficient in natural coloring, and she does not even appear to advantage in clothes that would set off her more attractive sister. Many women who long for glowing health will find that they, too, can have these charms if they will give a trial to that remedy which brings strength to frail women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.—Advertisement.

She Carried a Roll.

When the personal effects of the once famous dancer "Rigoletto," who died recently in Paris at the age of eighty, were sold at auction, an old silk dress was knocked down to a second-hand clothes dealer for a mere song. On examining the garment the purchaser found concealed in the lining a bundle of French bank notes to the value of $1,060.

Kilby Opposes Award of Project

the United States and to the President of the United States against this threatened imposition on this people."

But Governor Kilby defended the proposal of the Alabama Power company to take over the government's interest in the Gorgas steam plant on the Warrior river. He mentioned that there was an agreement between the government and the company whereby the company would take over the Gorgas plant when it ceased to be useful to the federal government. "I believe contracts between the government and private enterprises or corporations are just as sacred as contracts between individuals," said Governor Kilby in explaining his position regarding the Gorgas steam plant. "The state of Alabama has only recently gone into the courts in an effort to maintain the terms of a contract made in good faith between the state and a private corporation. If the government will not carry out its contracts how can we expect individuals and private corporations to carry out their contracts?"

Governor Kilby said there is much good in the bid of Henry Ford and in the Alabama Power company. He said he deplored the intemperate attitude which many persons have assumed during the past few days. He declared some persons were insisting that the development be handed over to Mr. Ford "without regard to the interests of the sovereign state and unmindful of the full interests of the present as well as coming generation." He also said that "opponents of the power company can see nothing good in its past, present or future, forgetful of the tremendous benefits the state has derived from the development by the company of water powers that ran to waste since the beginning of time until the money of the company served to harness it for the use of the state and its people."

Closing the statement, Governor Kilby said it is a critical time in the industrial life of Alabama and a time for cool heads and straight and careful thinking. "Let us continue to oppose any effort of the Alabama Power company to monopolize the state's water power, but let us be fair enough to give it that which rightfully belongs to it," he concluded.

"Let us support the offer of Mr. Ford, but let us insist that Mr. Ford should so amend his proposal as to make himself and his interests amenable to the laws of the nation and the state. Mr. Ford can work wonders in Alabama, but he can do it as well under the laws of Alabama as he can without the pale of the law. I want Mr. Ford in Alabama and am willing to go as far as possible to bring him here. If he does come, I hope there will never be a time during the 100 years of his leasehold interest in Alabama when any citizens of Alabama can accuse me, as governor, of having failed to do everything in my power to protect the interests of all the people."

We, the members of the athletic committee of the Morgan county teachers association, hereby make public the following general announcement concerning the annual field day which Morgan county schools have been conducting for the past several years:

1. The date of field day will be Friday, April 7, 1922.

2. The place will be at the Morgan county high school at Hartselle.

3. Field day will open as formerly with a parade and pageant by the schools. The parade will be ready to move at 10 o'clock. Parade will form in the Hartsville public school and move to high school building.

Industrial Agent Gives Outline Of Advantages Here

important cities in the state and the most important cities of the great agricultural belt of North Alabama—the Tennessee Valley.

Decatur is the third largest cotton market in the state. The Gulf Compress alone, here handles an average of 100,000 bales of cotton annually.

In Albany are located the principal southern repair shops of the Louisville and Nashville railroad system, employing about 2,000 skilled mechanics at good wages. The literature of the industrial agent also contains an extended statement about the schools and churches of the Twin Cities, every one of the 14 churches being referred to.

Mr. Scott turned out to be almost as much of a philosopher on how life ought to be lived as Henry Ford appears to be from his interviews. "The 'dear a wise man gets,'" said Mr. Scott, "the fewer are his wants. His work and the ordinary comforts are enough. I am more interested in right and wrong than I ever was, though I confess I do not attend church as often as I used to. My friends are Friends, called Quakers, and we came from Pennsylvania. I've been with the Louisville and Nashville 38 years, and I have found that in our world people are like looking glasses—they give back whatever is given them. I always take a man's own valuation, and men will always be what you expect them to be; except, of course, the defective and desperate ones, and we do not live to associate with that kind."

CALLED MEETING TONIGHT

VETERANS ELECT OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Voice of People

TRANSPORTATION

(By John H. Smith, T. M.) Transportation, what is it? We all know it is a great big factor, which concerns every person in this land of ours, some to a greater extent than others. Something that has been discussed and no doubt cursed more than any one thing in the United States, barring, of course, Ford's competitors for Muscle Shoals. Something that is supposed to be carried on by steamboat and railway companies throughout the land, and when a failure to come up to the expectation of the public is experienced, then an investigation principally of the railroads is in order. One of the late investigations cost the government around $12,000,000, and the testimonies filled several large volumes and resulted in the increasing of freight rates from 5 per cent to 40 per cent on January 1, 1922, the rates were reduced 10 per cent on agricultural products, even though small, it helped, but not enough to satisfy the needs of the country.

We are all of the opinion that something is wrong, so we will look toward the management—one set of men trying to tell another set how the railroads ought to be run, and the other set of men is trying to explain why it isn't being done that way—so a continuation of this cross-purposed discussion will inevitably lead to government ownership, which action is condemned by numbers owing to their belief that government ownership of the railroads is contrary to sound economics and American ideals of business, which is quite true if the same rules of management are adhered to which we have experienced since March 1, 1920.

Since the commercial depression which was inevitable owing to the post-war adjustment of our country, numbers of firms throughout the land were forced to close their books for the year showing a loss, while the railroads were continually clamoring about no profit, while they were guaranteed 5 1/2 per cent on their investment, but which agreement ends March 1, as it covered a period of two years from the date of the returning of the roads to private ownership.

A lot of traffic is being held up waiting for results after March 1, but unless an amendment is made to section No. 15-A, I. C. C. docket, the country will be just where we are today, for under its ruling the railroads entitled to freight rate high enough to bring a return of 5 1/2 or 6 per cent on their investment. It is true that 6 cannot be called a high rate of income, if based on a fair valuation, but the valuation the government and the people are having to pay 5 1/2 per cent on, is the valuation taken of the railroads in 1918-19, when the sky was the only limit for high prices and the valuation of the roads is in round numbers nineteen billions of dollars. The railroad should have been made to cut the valuation just the same as the merchant had to cut his goods and show a loss.
